The farmers of Vernon township, Cowley county, have organized a stock com-pany for the purpose of building a roller grist mill at Kellogg. Ten thousand dol-lars of the stock is already subscribed. The mill is to cost $25,000, and will have a capacity of 150 barrels per day.

Wichita Beacon, We noticed a farm team coming down Main street with a large load of something which upon a nearer approach proved to be corn husks. Upon inquiry we found that the farmer was hauling them in to the mattress factory, where he gets $20 per ton for them.

El Dorado Republican: Joseph Williams Esq., of Spring township, was in town Monday. He says the Little Walnut is lower than it has been for many years, that the acreage of Fall wheat is small but what there is of it looks well, inches in circumference, the smallest larger than a large bean. He also had several twigs with buds. The tree from which these were taken is literally loaded at the present time with bursting and small apples. A good crop was gathered last spring the variety being Early June.

Newton Kansan; One of the principal studies of the farmer should be to keep his land free from weeds and trash Green weeds, if put on the compost heap, or if plowed deep under ground, make good manure. But weeds left to grow and seed the ground are as bad as sheriff with a warrant of ejectment, Every farmer now has a mowing machine, or can get the use of one, so that there is no good reason for letting the weeds take hold of any farm, or field or Manhattan Mercury: The Hessian fly is with us. We see notices of its being in Davis county also. Now the question arises, what shall we do with it? Prof. Cyrus Thomas says that when it is in its "flaxseed" state—as it is now—it crawls down inside the sheath of the wheat stock, and there remains during the Winter, and hatches in April ready for its depredations. The only remedy seems to be to sow the wheat so late in Fall that the fly will not have it in which to deposit her eggs.

Council Grove Cosmos; A farmer who lives in the eastern part of the State feels satisfied that he has at last discovered a plan to have peaches every year, no matter how cold the Winters may be. He takes the dirt from around the roots in the Fall, bends the tree over on the ground and covers them over with straw. He has now about twenty-five trees that he experimented on last Fall, and they are filled with peaches, and these are the only trees in the country that have peaches on this season.

Medicine Lodge Cresset: A curiosty in the shape of a tree full of gourds may be seen at Squire Durbin's place on Little Mule creek. The tree would discount the s goord tree under which Jonah is said to have taken his nap. The vine planted by the Squire has run up on the tree and completely filled the branches with its fruit. A first glance at the tree would lead one to suppose it was loaded with an immense variety of pears such as were never before grown in this or any other country.
